Streamlogics Appoints Viocorp as Partner in Australia

Viocorp becomes most recent partner to license Streamlogics webcast platform.

Toronto, ON (PRWEB) May 5, 2008 -- Streamlogics, a leading global provider of webcasting solutions and services to enterprises, today announced it has strengthened its global market presence by signing a partnership with Viocorp. Under the terms of the agreement, Viocorp, Australia's award-winning internet broadcasting company has licensed Streamlogics EVENT™ webcast platform to deliver highly customizable and interactive streaming video and audio events to their high profile customers. Streamlogics will also leverage Viocorp's complete service offering to provide webcast services to customers that require support in the Asia Pacific region.

"Viocorp has seen incredible growth in both live and on demand webcasts and we are honored to have an organization of their caliber license the Streamlogics webcast platform," said Brian Ross, Vice President of Business Development. "Viocorp is very experienced with all aspects of webcast event production and will be a huge asset to our global partner program. They will be instrumental in supporting our international clients," he added.

"We are delighted to license the Streamlogics platform to enhance our webcasting capabilities across the Asia Pacific region," said Ian Gardiner, Managing Director, Viocorp. "Streamlogics provides their international partners with the tools, support and training we need to provide the webcasting solutions that many clients have long been seeking to empower their online communications."

Streamlogics is focused on growing its international presence, and has developed partnerships in both the United Kingdom and Ireland.
